Re: Patent Infringement of Luraco Patents by Sam's Spa Nail Supply salon products

Dear Mr. Tran,

We are intellectual property counsel for Luraco Health & Beauty, LLC, which is licensed by Luraco, Inc for using U.S. utility patents 9,926,933 (Bearing and Shaft Assembly for Jet Assemblies) and 9,855,188 (Multifunctional Magnetic Coupling Jet), and design patents D622,736 (Jet Pump Housing), D698,368 (Magnetic Pump Wet End), and D751,723 S (Foot Spa).

A comparison of the claims of the utility patents above with your product offering reveals an apparent infringement by your products, particularly the shaft and bearing assemblies concerning the base, cap, and impeller of patent 9,926,933, and 9,855,188. See enclosed Exhibits A, B, C.

This is the second letter we have sent you on this matter; the United States Postal Service shows that you received it by certified mail on June 14th. I am sending this second letter because the first one did not include the full allegations of infringement. Otherwise I would proceed with the next step of litigation.

Luraco still desires to amicably resolve this matter and is willing to discuss selling its products to you and eliminate dispute. However, until this matter is resolved, it is requested that all organizations affiliated with you cease selling or offering for sale spa pumps and foot spas.

You can contact me through email or phone, as provided below. Please contact me within two weeks of receiving this letter. I will assume that I should counsel stronger measures if you make no attempt to contact me during that time.

Respectfully,
s/Warren V. Norred/
